My Dear Sir,

I am obliged to you
for your pamphlet, &
how glad it went into my hands. This being uncommon, I read it twice, first in 2^d and in
I am, I am, I am
put it away. As yet,

The consummate ripeness of both of them, and it, & the man.

Mr. David Whittary too, is, I find, appearing to the public against the Senate.
His argument on the Franchise question, consistently pursued by him, in the Tribune, & this has made the Secretary (Mr. Dickinson) of the Senate, peculiarly opinion.

If you have time, do me the favor to read it, & let me know whether you receive the right or wrong. I am sure you find it in the Union of Friday last, or Thursday last.

Yours truly
Henry Adams
